

Press Release

Portugal Air Show in every edition has showed to the visitors and aviation enthusiasts exhibitions and aerobatics of extreme quality, from all over the world.

The flying displays are absolutely one of the most important components of the event especially for the general public, and it's our goal to maintain the high standards of the previous editions.

For this we have the pleasure of announce the presence for the first time of Patrulla Águila, from the Spanish Air Force, in this that will be the 7th edition of Portugal Air Show.

This aerobatic team was created in 1985, and since then participated in several highlight events in Europe, Middle East, United States, Canada and Morocco, from which we point out: Expo 92, Seville; Olympiads 92, Barcelona; Royal International Air Tattoo, Great Britain and Giornata Azzurra, Italy.

It started to perform with five aircraft, but nowadays has seven aircraft CASA C-101 Aviojet which present several configurations.

It has over 10 000 flight hours and over 300 national and international exhibitions, and we can guarantee they will provide an amazing show, not only due to the quality of the performances, as for the experience and ability of the pilots.
